WHILE SHOWING LOVE FOR LOCAL

Programs from the KJZZ news team and NPR deliver an increasingly rare, yet vital mix of rigorously reported local and national stories. Morning Edition and All Things Considered anchor a diverse roster of rich, insightful programs including This American Life, Here & Now, Fresh Air and news from the BBC.

Hear Arizona | This podcast series has addressed issues of aging, affordable housing, homelessness and accessibility for people with disabilities — and empowered listeners with solutions.

Fronteras Desk | Focusing on an expanse of an under-covered news desert from northern Arizona deep into northwestern Mexico, reporters illuminate complex and controversial subjects like national security, immigration, business, trade and life on tribal lands.

 Hermosillo, Mexico Bureau | KJZZ was the first local public radio station in the United States to open an international news bureau. Its location helps KJZZ explore the dynamic relationship between Arizona and Mexico.

The Show | Spotlighting service workers, artists and musicians is one of the ways this KJZZ public affairs program has celebrated the everyday people of Phoenix.

Countering a local journalism deficit, KJZZ’s largest radio newsroom in the Southwest ensures:

• LOCAL PERSPECTIVE to national stories
• DEPTH ON REGIONAL issues and culture

KJZZ covers stories that impact positive change, lift unheard voices and bring unique coverage to the Valley.

When all other Phoenix classical music stations folded in the mid-eighties, KBACH stepped up its role as the heart of the arts, with playlists curated by hometown hosts and performances from local organizations.
